

The background of the advertisement is a photograph of a modern, minimalist office space. In the foreground, a white desk with a light wood-grain top is partially visible. On the desk, there is a small potted plant in a brown paper bag, a laptop, and some papers. A white ergonomic chair with a light wood base is positioned in front of the desk. In the background, a light wood shelving unit holds several binders and books. Three pendant lights with exposed bulbs hang from the ceiling. The overall aesthetic is clean and professional.

The nature of work is changing. Evolve with the times.

As more individuals begin their return to the office, you may need support navigating the future of the workplace. What does your future work model look like and how will it support your initiatives in the office, hub, or home setting? Office Depot® offers a full-service office furniture dealership and world-class print services that can address all these needs from concept to completion. Whether you need help planning, designing, installing, project managing, or all of the above, we'll support you at every step.

Say goodbye to a cookie-cutter approach.

Every office space is unique and should be treated accordingly. Our design solutions are highly individualized for you and your team's needs and always incorporate the latest thinking on style, efficiency, and ergonomics. Given the evolving nature of work, we also have solutions for hybrid and work-from-home workspaces. After all, more intentional design leads to higher associate satisfaction and retention.

Our solutions are everywhere you need them to be.

With the support of furniture professionals and print service consultants across the country, Office Depot provides insights and experience to make your space stylish and functional with top-grade furniture, custom-made solutions, full-scale signage solutions, quick-ship furniture and print items when you need them ASAP.

We'll help you and your team see all the signs.

The cherry on top? With a nationwide network, a world-class web-to-print and digital platform, and a dedicated client services team, Office Depot Print Services can help your business control and enhance its brand, all while reducing expenses and maximizing ROI. Our Print Services include branded products, wall and window graphics, and all the signage your team needs to stay aware of the evolving compliance and safety regulations.
